I oppose dropping the requirement for Morse code proficiency in amateur radio licensing. Code introduces hams to digital technology at an elementary level, promotes the use of home made equipment, and promotes the use of minimum power.